Heavy Fighting North of Somme-British Advance Along the Lys in Flanders. [BRITISH REPORT]

LONDON, Aug. 9 .- Following is the text of to-day's War Office

"Our progress on the battlefront continues. The French have taken Fresnoy-en-Chaussee. British troops are east of Le Quesnel and Calx. "North of the Somme the enemy is making vigorous resistance to our advance. Heavy fighting has taken place between Chipilly and Morlancourt.

"The number of prisoners taken by the Allied armies yesterday exceeded 14,000 and the number of guns captured cannot be estimated.

"During the past day the enemy has continued to evacuate forward positions held by him in the Lys Valley. Our line there has advanced along the whole front from the Lawe River to the Bourre River, northwest of Merville, to a maximum depth of 2,000 yards. Our troops now hold Locon, Le Cornet, Malo, Quentin, La Petit, Pacaut and Lesart.

"We carried out a successful local operation last night north of Kemmel, advancing our line a short distance over a front of 1,000 yards and capturing thirty prisoners.

Attempted Enemy Raids in Regions of Prosnes, Souain and Elsewhere Are Failures.

FRENCH REPORT

PARIS, Aug. 9.-Following is the text of to-day's War Office state-

"There is no change on the battlefront south of the Somme.

"During the night there was a good deal of activity on the part of the German artillery forces in the Champagne. The Germans undertook several raids in the regions of Prosnes, the Mountain Without a Name and Squain. They were repulsed."

French War Ministry Issues Statement Saying That the German Artillery Made No Counter Preparation.

DARIS, Aug. 9.-The French War Ministry at 12.30 o'clock to-day issued the following statement:

"The brilliant operations which we, in concert with British troops, executed yesterday, have been a surprise to the enemy. As occurred in the offensive of July 18, the soldiers of Gen. Debeney have captured enemy soldiers engaged in the peaceful pursuit of harvesting the fields behind the German lines.

"Our artillery preparation was short, lasting less than an hour. The enemy artillery had made no counter-preparation at the beginning of the action, merely replying feebly.

"The original front of the attack was only four kilometres, situated south of the Amiens, Roye Boad, where our infantry went over the top at 5.05 o'clock, but gradually the offensive developed all along the right bank of the Avre in the region of Haricourt."

"The Germans succeeded at some points in temporarily staying our advance, defending themselves energetically, particularly between Morisel and Moreuil, which they defended bitterly with machine guns. We took Morisel by storm. The battle was also stubborn in Moreuil, but already our troops had advanced north of Moreuil to a point northeast of the wood which commands the village, while another group had crossed the Avre south of the town. The Germans were obliged to withdraw.

"With irresistible courage our soldiers climbed the hills east of the Avre. Meanwhile our charging cars, crossing the river upon bridges hastily thrown over the stream and proceeding up the hills, joined and assisted the infantry.

"Recovering from the first surprise the Germans hurriedly concentrated troops in order to stop our progress. It was vain. La Neuville-Sire-Bernard, Villers-aux-Erables, Mezieres, Plessier, Romainvillers were successively captured, while on our right British troops also continued their victorious advance. In the early morning hours prisoners, guns and machine guns were streaming

German Critics Up in the Air, but Praise the "Strategic Retreat."

LONDON, Aug. 9.-The general feeling here is that the importance of the successful new battle cannot be overestimated. It is regarded as the turning point of the year's campaign, and perhaps even the turning point of the whole war. It was only a month ago that all the talk of the British military critics. was whether the Allies could hold on in the face of the great German offensive which the German people had been told was to finish the war. The initiative has now been taken from the enemy, and within the month the Allies have engaged in two important battles with conspicuous suc-

German critics on the military situation in the west disclose curious di vergencies in opinion as to who bore the brunt of the attack on the Allied side. ward movement," the Cologne Gazette cautiously expresses the opinion that it is too early yet to say which side wins on the balance.

"History offers no precedent," says Gen. von Ardenne in the Dusseldorf Nachrichten, "for the fact that the victor, after three victorious battles, retires from the field unharassed by retires from the field unharassed by the enemy to take up positions further in the rear. This is difficult to under-stand," he adds, and he proceeds to explain how by a marvelous exhibition of self-control the Germans refrained from pushing their attacks home when from pushing their attacks home when to do so would have cost too much "precious German blood." He admits that "the manoeuvre of carrying the enemy's first lines with a rush and following it up by a deep thrust into the ground behind, which had succeeded four times, failed on July 15."
